

The introduction

... always relates to the text in the way which is outlined in the task
... often explains a quote or a concept in relation to the text

introduction

Transition to your own examples or arguments

Topic sentence introducing the first paragraph

Supporting sentences

must refer to and illustrate the topic sentence with the help of concrete examples

Topic sentence presenting a claim or idea to introduce the second paragraph

Supporting sentences

must refer to and illustrate the topic sentence with the help of concrete examples.

Topic sentence presenting a claim or idea to introduce the third paragraph

Supporting sentences

must refer to and illustrate the topic sentence with the help of concrete examples.

main part / body

The conclusion

presents possible results, consequences, a solution for the problem, a warning, a call for action or a provocative question.
The conclusion often refers back to the introduction.

conclusion